Darling Al, It has been two years since you lost your fight with Ewings Sarcoma. How we long for beautiful, bright, kind, complicated, wickedly funny you. It was astonishing how you bumbled masterfully through life, somehow always getting exactly what you wanted. You faced the hideous pain and indignity of cancer with deep grace and boundless courage. In the very face of death you made us laugh. Irreverent you would be pleased to know that we have, as you wanted, established The Alex Adam Award at Princeton, for the "most talented undergrad with the worst GPA". You would have won it in a heartbeat.

With love, Mom and Dad,
Nick and Dash.
